

Provision of the International Relations Service

International Relations Service (Next – Service) of New Higher Education Institute is the structural unit of the institution. It is headed by a head of the service, who is accountable to the rector of the institution and the academic personnel. The Head of the Service is appointed and dismissed by the Rector of the Institution.

The service is functioning in connection with other structural units of the institution and carries out its activities in accordance with the Georgian legislation, the internal regulations of the institution and its own provision;

Within the scope of its competence, it is accountable to the rector and academic council of the institution, fulfills the duties imposed by the Rector and the Academic Council, on the basis of the law.

The sphere of activity of the service, its main objectives and functions

1. To promote the process of internationalization of new higher educational programs;
2. Establishment and development of connections with the foreign higher education institutions;
3. To promote mutual cooperation between New Higher Education Institution and its international partners;
4. Coordination of multilateral international meetings of the institute;
5. To involve the students, researchers, administrative staff and professors in the international mobility / exchange projects;
6. To assist the local and the international students and personnel during the period of exchange contests and the subsequent stages;
7. To facilitate the establishment of a multicultural society in the institution;
8. To receive delegations of scientific institutions of foreign higher education institutions.